Tickets on sale for Chelan's popular 'Brews on the Bridge' event

By QUINN PROPST
Ward Media Staff Reporter

CHELAN – Tickets are now on sale for one of Chelan's most popular events, Brews on the Bridge, set to take place on Sunday, October 6 from 1-5 p.m.

The event, which sells out every year, is an opportunity to enjoy regional beer, cider, food, and live music in one of Lake Chelan's most iconic settings – the bridge.

"This is a really unique event, because we're trying to showcase sort of all the other options for beverages in the lake, it's an opportunity to enjoy regional beer and cider and food," Lake Chelan Chamber of Commerce Executive Director Mike Steele said.

The event includes an educational component that highlights the area's agrarian history and culture, featuring local apple orchards that have transitioned to cider production and local brewers crafting beer.

"It's just an opportunity to showcase that craft and do it in an iconic setting, right? Everybody associates the bridge with Lake Chelan," Steele said. "It's really fun."

Steele said Brews on the Bridge is one of the most popular local events and tickets sell out quickly every year. "A lot of the locals come down to enjoy the bridge," Steele said. "The weather is perfect."

"This year we have an amazing artist," he said. "She was featured on The Voice on season 20, and she's gonna be fantastic. So, great music, great beer, great food, great environment, you know, and again, good hang out with all your friends here locally."

This year's Brews on the Bridge will feature live music by Savanna Woods, a talented artist who gained national attention as a contestant on The Voice.

For the first time this year, a VIP experience is being offered.

VIP ticket holders will be able to enter the event an hour early for exclusive tastings and will receive branded

Hot Tubs Liquidators expands to Wenatchee

By WILL NILLES
Ward Media Staff Reporter

WENATCHEE – Hot Tubs Liquidators, a local Chelan business, continues to prove itself as one of the most affordable spa businesses in the region.

Owners John and Carol Aldrich look forward to the grand opening celebration of their new Wenatchee location.

Local spa business game changers the Aldriches have been working together in hot tub retail for around 30 years, providing spas to buyers from all around the NCW at impressively low prices.

Since the beginning, Carol and John have worked together, initially buying a hot tub together as friends and falling in love with each other and the spa business.

John Aldrich, also known as 'Hot Tub John,' looked back at his and his wife's long history in the spa business together.

"We've always been equal partners and very supportive of each other," he said. "We both love the spa business. We've been in it together for probably 30 years. We actually were friends, and we bought a hot tub together... we saw the love, and we started doing spas."

Ever since then, the two have worked as partners, opening their first store together in Woodinville in 1997, where they began a long and colorful career of connecting NCW residents to affordable yet luxurious spa systems.

Now, the couple runs their business out of Chelan, where buyers travel for hours and even cross the Canadian border to get their hands on the Aldriches' one-of-a-kind hot tub prices and availability.

What Hot Tub John argues makes his business different from any others in the area is its ability to provide high-quality hot tubs at a fraction of competitor prices while maintaining rapid availability for buyers. For this impressive feat, the Aldriches brand themselves as truly different hot tub dealers within the region.

As Hot Tub John explains, this impressive business model is viable through high-volume purchases of spa systems rather than singular purchases of customizable systems, which can

Lake Chelan welcomes fall with wine harvest celebration

By QUINN PROPST
Ward Media Staff Reporter

CHELAN – The Lake Chelan Wine Harvest is a roughly two-month-long celebration of the wine harvest in Lake Chelan Valley.

It offers a chance to discover limited-edition and newly released wines, learn from winemakers about the winemaking process, and experience grape stomps, vineyard tours, live music, and gourmet cuisine.

"So the Lake Chelan Wine Harvest is actually the first day of fall through Thanksgiving, and it's really just about experiencing, you know, the beauty of harvest in the Lake Chelan Valley, and specifically the beauty of the wine harvest," Lake Chelan Chamber of Commerce Executive Director Mike Steele said.

"And all season long, they do, you know, different food pairings, harvest dinners, grape stomps, live music throughout the valley," Steele said. "And of course, you're taking in the stunning transition of the season, but also views of the lake. And it's just magical."

The season culminates with fall barrel tastings in November.

Since the Lake Chelan Valley received its American Viticultural Area (AVA) designation, wineries have celebrated the harvest with various events, consistently focusing on the region's agricultural heritage. The celebration aligns with the valley's long-standing tradition of tree fruit farming, which has continued for over 100 years, Steele said.

The harvest season in Lake Chelan is a busy time, with both grape and other fruit harvests taking place.

"The buzz in the air is really fun," Stelle said. "Everybody's energy is really ramped up, because, you know, you're finally at the point where you're harvesting all the fruits of your labor, and it's just a great time to be here."

"The pace is different than the summer; crowds are different," he said. The demographic is different. So folks are just here because they're really looking for a quiet and quaint, relaxing time of the year, and again, to experience the natural beauty of the fall in Lake Chelan is pretty amazing."

For more information and a schedule of events during the Wine Harvest, visit lakechelanwinevalley.com/events/wine-harvest/.

In a world of noise, silence is golden

In our hyperconnected world of constant notifications, streaming media, and 280-character hot takes, a vital human skill is quietly slipping away: the art of listening.

True listening - giving one's full, undivided attention to another person's words and meaning - has become increasingly rare. We nod along in conversations while our minds wander to unanswered emails. We craft responses before the other person has finished speaking.

We reduce complex ideas to oversimplified soundbites, missing nuances and depths that could enrich our understanding.

This decline in listening skills is not merely anecdotal. Research in recent years has suggested a concerning trend.

For instance, some studies have indicated a significant decrease in empathy among college students compared to previous generations, with researchers pointing to factors such as decreased face-to-face interactions and increased screen time as potential contributors.

In the business world, surveys have found that while executives spend a majority of their workdays communicating, only a small fraction of that time is dedicated to active listening.

The costs of this erosion are profound and far-reaching. In our personal relationships, it breeds misunderstanding and emotional distance. Couples report feeling unheard and undervalued, leading to increased conflict and decreased intimacy.

Parents struggle to connect with their children, missing important cues about their emotional well-being.

In our civic discourse, poor listening fuels polarization as we talk past one another, entrenching our own views rather than seeking common ground.

Political debates devolve into shouting matches, with each side more interested in scoring points than finding solutions.

The echo chambers of social media amplify this effect, surrounding us with voices that merely confirm our existing beliefs.

In our workplaces, the inability to listen stifles innovation and collaboration. Ideas are dismissed before they're fully formed, and valuable insights from quieter team members go unheard.

Customer needs are misunderstood, leading to products and services that miss the mark. The cost to businesses in lost productivity and missed opportunities is immeasurable.

Reclaiming the art of listening requires intention and practice. It means setting aside our devices, resisting the urge to interrupt, and truly seeking to understand rather than simply waiting for our turn to speak. It requires us to be comfortable with silence and to ask thoughtful follow-up questions.

Active listening techniques, such as paraphrasing what we've heard to confirm understanding, can dramatically improve our ability to absorb and retain information.

The rewards of deep listening are equally profound. It builds empathy, strengthening our connections with others and fostering a sense of community.

In business, better listening leads to improved customer satisfaction, more effective teamwork, and stronger leadership. In education, it enhances learning outcomes and critical thinking skills.

On a personal level, becoming a better listener can transform our relationships. It allows us to offer genuine support to friends and loved ones, creating deeper bonds of trust and understanding. It opens us to new perspectives, challenging our assumptions and broadening our worldview.

In a world of noise, the ability to truly listen is a superpower.

There are encouraging signs that some are recognizing the value of this lost art. Mindfulness and meditation practices, which often incorporate listening exercises, have surged in popularity.

Some schools are introducing listening skills into their curricula, recognizing its importance for academic and social success.

Forward-thinking companies are offering listening workshops to their employees, seeing it as a crucial leadership skill.

Yet these efforts, while commendable, are just a start. To truly reclaim the art of listening, we need a cultural shift.

We must recognize that in our rush to express ourselves, we've neglected the equally important skill of reception. We need to reframe listening not as a passive activity, but as an active, engaged process that requires energy and attention.

As we navigate the challenges of our modern era - from political division to technological disruption to global crises - perhaps it's time we tune out the clamor and tune in to one another.

Our ability to solve problems, to innovate, to heal divisions, and to forge meaningful connections may all depend on rediscovering this lost art.

In the words of the Greek philosopher Epictetus, "We have two ears and one mouth so that we can listen twice as much as we speak."

As we move forward in this noisy, complex world, let's challenge ourselves to embody this ancient wisdom. Our shared future may depend on it.

Area golfers complete annual "Golf Binge" across British Columbia courses

Ward Media Lake Chelan Mirror

Lake Golf Club. Bob Matson emerged as the winner of the "Wold Trophy," awarded for the lowest weekly net score.

The trophy, named in honor of former member Larry Wold, is a highlight of the annual event.

Other notable achievements included Matt Froman securing the lowest weekly gross score, and Ellis Nierenberg finishing with the second-lowest weekly net score. Darrell Richards and Mike Mehrer won the annual chipping and putting contests, respectively.

The trip featured daily competitions, including closest-to-the-pin contests, long drive challenges, and team events.

Ray Wilson, Gil McKinnie, and Matt Froman were recognized for their accuracy on par-3 holes throughout the week.

This year's participants continued a tradition that has seen various members over the years.

The organizers noted that several previous Golf Binge Members were unable to join the 2024 group, including Lance Stark, Chuck Rhoden, Don Valentini, Brian Dougan, Tom Fagerholm, and Bob Ludeman.

The Golf Binge combines friendly competition with the opportunity to experience multiple courses in British Columbia's scenic Okanagan Valley, fostering camaraderie among long-time golfing friends.

The group, mostly from the Chelan/Manson area in Washington, competed in various challenges across Osoyoos and Kelowna from September 3-7, with Bob Matson winning the coveted "Wold Trophy" for lowest weekly net score.

Wenatchee Valley Dispute Resolution Center honors founder, recognizes community peacebuilder

Ward Media Lake Chelan Mirror

WENATCHEE — The Wenatchee Valley Dispute Resolution Center (WVDR) honored its founding director and recognized a community peacebuilder during its 2024 Annual Celebration.

The sold-out event, titled "Honoring our Roots, Celebrating our Growth," was held at the Wenatchee Valley Museum and Cultural Center. It marked a significant milestone in the organization's community engagement efforts.

Lynn Yialelis, the WVDR's founding director, was honored for her role in establishing the center. Attendees heard about Yialelis's journey that led to the center's creation.

In 2006, thanks to Yialelis's efforts and support from the founding board, Chelan County Commissioners Keith Goehner, Buell Hawkins, and Ron Walters approved the WVDR's establishment.

Alicia McRae, a founding board member and Executive Director of the Housing Authority of Chelan County & City of Wenatchee, and Brett McDonald, current WVDRC Board president, presented the award to Yialelis.

Bob Mark received the inaugural Community Peacebuilder Award. Mark, who serves as the Human Services Director for Upper Valley MEND, was recognized for his passion and extensive training in non-violent and compassionate communication.

Mark's approach to his work involves applying compassionate communication principles when interacting with clients, staff, and volunteers. He has shared his knowledge with MEND staff, providing training and assisting in addressing challenging situations using peacebuilding and nonviolent communication techniques.

The WVDRC noted that Mark's approach has significantly impacted the culture at Upper Valley MEND, fostering empathy and understanding.

For more information about WVDRC services and educational opportunities, interested parties can visit www.wvdr.org or call 509-888-0957.

ENTIAT ATHLETE OF THE WEEK

Bailey Ward
Volleyball

Bailey Ward has proven herself a versatile asset for the volleyball team, seamlessly transitioning from middle to outside hitter this season. Her adaptability and quick learning have paid dividends, as Ward recorded double-digit kills in both matches this week. Not content with just offensive prowess, she also maintains an impressive passing rating, showcasing her all-around court skills. Beyond her statistical contributions, Ward's positive attitude has made her a key influence on team morale. Her ability to excel in a new position while uplifting her teammates makes Ward a standout choice for Athlete of the Week.

ENTIAT ATHLETE OF THE WEEK

Noah Fogelstrom

Senior - Football
Captain, Slotback/Defensive Back/
Kick & Punt Returner

Noah has had an impressive start to his Senior season, racking up 230 receiving yards on just 9 catches (averaging 25.6 yards per catch) and 4 touchdowns in the first two games. His versatility is evident in his 343 all-purpose yards, which include receiving, rushing, and returns. Defensively, Noah

CHELAN ATHLETE OF THE WEEK

Jacob Allen
Senior Football
Linebacker and Wide Receiver

Jacob Allen shone brightly despite the Chelan Goats' 7-23 loss to Chewelah on Sept 6. The versatile player made his mark on both sides of the ball, showcasing his defensive prowess with 4 tackles, 2 fumble recoveries, and a crucial interception. Allen's impact didn't stop there, as he also contributed significantly on offense, hauling in 4 catches and scoring the team's lone touchdown. His standout performance in a challenging game demonstrates Allen's resilience and all-around athletic ability, earning him well-deserved Athlete of the Week honors.

continues to excel, already notching 3 interceptions and maintaining his position as one of the State 1B leaders in this category, as he did in his Junior year. Beyond his statistical contributions, Noah's leadership and infectious energy on the football field inspire his teammates, making him a valuable asset to our team.

Chelan edges Brewster in nail-biting Cherry Cup showdown, 14-12 will run you for four hard quarters, and even that may not be enough.

Last Friday night, Sept. 13, it was enough for the Chelan Goats varsity football team that managed to wrestle the coveted cup from the grip of the Brewster Bears by the same two-point margin that cost them the cup last year.

Like last year, it was anybody's game down to the final minutes of play when both teams had ball possession and the opportunity to score the winning touchdown.

The host North Central Washington 2B Bears matched up well against the 1A Caribou Trail League Goats and had an answer for both defense and offense for what Chelan brought on the field.

Both Brewster and Chelan had similar ground games, with the Goats completing a few more passes. Chelan rushed for about 150 yards.

Chelan suffers third straight loss in 6-0 rout by Bush

CHELAN – The Chelan Mountain Goats soccer team suffered their third consecutive defeat of the season on Saturday, falling 6-0 to the visiting Bush Blazers in a non-league match.

The loss drops Chelan's record to 0-3 for the campaign, following a 2-0 defeat against the Omak Pioneers in a league Bears senior running back Fabian Nava had 95 yards alone on 15 carries for Brewster.

Penalties spelled some of the difference in a game as close as the Cherry Cup was.

The Bears were tagged seven times for 70 yards, while Chelan racked up five for 45 yards.

Turnovers were also a factor, especially when they occurred near the opposing goal.

The Goats struck first midway through the opening quarter on a pass from senior quarterback Oliver Reed to contest earlier in the week. The Mountain Goats have yet to score a goal this season, while conceding eight in their last two matches.

Bush, making their season debut, dominated the match from start to finish.

The Blazers' commanding performance sets a positive tone for their upcoming 1A Emerald Sound league match against the Granite Falls Tigers on Tuesday.

senior wide receiver Jermain Hernandez for a TD, followed by a successful extra point kick for seven points.

A short time later, the Bears answered when sophomore running back Preston Thompson loped into the end zone for a short yardage score. Brewster's attempt at a two-point conversion was stopped, and they trailed Chelan 7-6.

In the second quarter, a fake handoff by Bears sophomore quarterback Sam Arevalo, followed by a short pass to Thomp-

MANSON – In a hard-fought non-league contest on Friday night, the Manson Trojans fell to Lind-Ritzville/Sprague/Washtucna/Kahlotus 39-16, dropping their season record to 0-2.

Despite the loss, Manson's offense showed flashes of potential, particularly in the passing game. Junior quarterback Cooper Pinski completed 1 of 1 passes for 17 yards, while senior Vince Strecker connected on 17 of 28 attempts for 226 yards and a touchdown.

Strecker's primary target was senior Jaxon Teague, who hauled in 4 receptions for 62 yards.

son near the goal, resulted in a two-yard score. The two-point conversion once again failed to give Brewster a 12-7 lead.

With half a minute remaining before the half, Chelan's Reed ran the ball for a short yardage goal.

The extra point kick was made a significant impact, recording 1 catch for 136 yards and a touchdown.

On the ground, Manson's rushing attack was led by Strecker, who gained 68 yards on 11 carries. Junior Hector Valencia contributed 30 yards on 4 attempts, including a long run of 13 yards.

Defensively, the Trojans were paced by Valencia, who registered 10 total tackles, including 6 solo stops. Senior Chris Vazquez added 9 tackles, while junior Luis Anaya chipped in with 11 total tackles.

The Trojans will look to secure their first win of the season when they travel to face the Liberty Bell Mountain Lions in a 2B Central Washington league matchup on Friday, September 20.

good, putting the Goats up by two, 14-12. That was the scoring for the game, though each team threatened during the remaining two quarters but was stopped on downs or turnovers.

CASHMERE – Thirty individuals from eight different countries took the Oath of Allegiance and became naturalized U.S. citizens at the 9/11 Spirit of America Memorial in Cashmere on Sept. 11, prior to the 9/11 remembrance ceremony.

“We looked at the memorial service as honoring those who have sacrificed so much for this country, things that happened on that day, on Sept. 11... A lot of sacrifices were made to really keep the American Dream and American spirit alive, which is what continues to be the beacon of hope to many in other countries, that really translates into kind of what we’re doing,” said Doug Jones, president of the 9/11 Spirit of America Memorial Foundation.

The ceremony was organized by Norma Gallegos, Program Director of Hand in Hand Immigration Services, an accredited, Wenatchee-based nonprofit that assists legal permanent residents in obtaining U.S. citizenship. Gallegos collaborated with Jones and United States Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) to ensure the thirty new citizens, some of whom live and work in the Upper Valley, were able to celebrate their significant accomplishments among friends, family, and the community.

Legal permanent residents who want to naturalize must go through a lengthy, complicated process. It involves a costly fee, paperwork, a background check, an interview, and a test. It often takes multiple trips to either Spokane or Yakima, where the closest USCIS offices are located.

Hand in Hand Immigration Services assists over 100 people in getting naturalized each year but typically always has around 250 open cases, said Gallegos.

“The need is bigger than people think. It’s not just filling out paperwork, it’s walking [people through it], that’s why our name is very fitting, Hand in Hand. Sometimes we hold people’s hand. There’s times that people don’t want to go to an interview, they’re so scared... And I have to take them. I [say], ‘You have to go... You’re not going to quit on the eighth step,’” said Gallegos.

Of the thirty individuals taking the oath on Sept. 11 was 94-year-old Margarita A De Luna. A De Luna first came to the U.S. in her 30’s, said her grandson, Arturo Rodriguez.

“She always wanted to be a U.S. citizen, but because she used to go back and forth between the U.S. and Mexico, she never decided to do it. Until last year, we were talking, and she’s like, ‘You know what? I want to become a U.S. citizen, because I want to have the right to vote,’” said Rodriguez.

After nearly a year of going through the process, she proudly took the oath. The new citizens had the opportunity to register to vote shortly after the ceremony.

Bartels Racing sisters in race for points leader

By MIKE MALTAIS
 Ward Media Staff Reporter

BREWSTER – A pair of racing sisters – Marissa and Marina Bartels – will be competing for all the marbles at the Manson Hydrofest, Sept. 27-29, following a first-place finish at Brewster three weeks earlier.

When the owners, drivers, and boats with the Pacific Northwest Boat Racing Association (PNBRA) rolled into town for the third annual Brewster Thunderfest – Tony Newton Memorial Regatta on Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 7-8, the only team boasting a pair of racing sisters was the one that other drivers were trying to catch.

Marina, 25, and Marissa Bartels, 23, of Bartels Family Racing in Buckley, Washington, were in second place in the 2.5 Modified division, only 175 points behind leader Jestin Burnett after coming off a third-place finish at Pateros, August 17-18.

The Bartels sisters drive the blue and white A-11 powered by an Esslinger four-cylinder modified 2.5 litre fuel-injected engine capable of developing more than 350 horsepower.

Marissa’s Brewster win brought the Bartels team within about 60 points of the title.

When Marina’s career on a tugboat crew allows, she shares cockpit duties with her sister, but four years at college plus work – like her current stint in the Gulf of Mexico during Thunderfest – puts Marissa behind the wheel more often.

“Marissa has had a lot more opportunity to drive the boat,” said dad Darren Bartels.

Marissa’s job with Lakeridge Paving in Auburn positions her in closer proximity to the fast boat crowd since Lakeridge owns the Go Fast Turn Left Racing team and a boat that races in the unlimited circuit.

Driver Gunnar O’Farrell is also Marina’s boyfriend, so Bartels describes competing against him as more of a family affair.

Growing up racing

“When the girls were young, I had a Grand Prix boat called the Miss Executive’, a former world record holder,” said Bartels.

“During that period, they learned about crewing and dealing with adults.”

Power boats were as familiar as pacifiers to the girls.

“When they finally came of age at 16, they got the opportunity to drive,” said Bartels. “I bought a 2.5 stock boat for them, and we placed second in the nation on our first year (2017) out.”

The boat the Bartels team runs now was the 2018 2.5 modified national champion and purchased by Bartels in 2019. It comes with an ironic link to its current owners.

Washington State releases 2024 hunting prospects, emphasizes new regulations

Ward Media
Lake Chelan Mirror

OLYMPIA - The Washington Department of Fish and Wildlife (WDFW) has released its annual hunting prospects for the upcoming fall season, providing crucial information for hunters across the state.

The reports, compiled by district wildlife biologists, offer detailed insights into field conditions and hunting opportunities for big game, waterfowl, and upland game birds in various areas of Washington.

"Our district wildlife biologists write these popular reports to give an in-depth look at what field conditions could look like this year," said Anis Aoude, WDFW game division manager.

"These documents have a lot of useful information that can help both new and experienced hunters plan their seasons."

In addition to the hunting prospects, the WDFW has made available an interactive Hunt Planner web map (www.geodataservices.wdfw.wa.gov/hunt-planner) to assist hunters in finding permit and general season hunts based on various criteria.

Aoude highlighted several important considerations for hunters this season, including potential wildfire impacts on hunting opportunities and the requirement for hunters to pass a black bear identification test in certain game management units.

Of particular note is the recent confirmation of the first case of chronic wasting disease (CWD) in Washington, detected in north Spokane County.

The WDFW has implemented rule changes to mitigate the spread of the disease and urges hunters to familiarize themselves with these new regulations.

The department also announced youth-only hunting dates for pheasant and waterfowl, encouraging young hunters to participate in these special events.

Hunters are advised to consult the WDFW's annual regulation pamphlets, available online at www.wdfw.wa.gov/hunting/regulations and in print, for comprehensive information on hunting regulations throughout the state.

As the fall hunting season approaches, the WDFW's efforts to provide detailed prospects and planning tools underscore the importance of informed and responsible hunting practices in Washington's diverse ecosystems.

Autumn Leaf Festival to celebrate 60 years

By Taylor Caldwell
Ward Media Staff Reporter

LEAVENWORTH - The Autumn Leaf Festival returns for its 60th celebration over the last weekend of September.

"I'm really looking forward to the community coming out and supporting the parade, actually, Leavenworth's oldest festival, one of our first festivals here," said Grand Marshal Rob Eaton.

Founded in 1964, the Autumn Leaf Festival was created to celebrate the turning of the leaves, and to also say thank you to the community and the visitors for coming, said Eaton.

"We have an incredible community here. We have worked over the decades to not only create a thriving business community, but also worked hard to create a very good, strong community," said Eaton.

This year, the Autumn Leaf Festival will have an array of family friendly events, such as a pumpkin pie eating contest and a scavenger hunt of rocks painted by local artist Candice Ann.

The festival is partnering with Leavenworth Arthaus for pumpkin painting, followed by pumpkin rolling down the hill of Front Street Park.

"It's Americana. It's what I grew up with, going to parades, going to events, family friendly stuff, fairs, barbecues, and this is what we try and create in this Northwest Festival Hosting Group, so you get that feeling of family," said Royal Lady Linda Bradshaw.

Bradshaw has spent the entire spring and summer traveling from one parade to another across the Pacific Northwest, representing Leavenworth and the Autumn Leaf Festival Association (ALFA) as this year's Royal Lady.

Bradshaw even won the Stenberg Award for most creative mini-float at the Portland Rose Festival, with a horse and carriage float made with a golf cart and all organic materials.

Now, parade groups from each of the towns Bradshaw visited over the summer will gather in Leavenworth to witness and participate in the historic Autumn Leaf Festival, alongside residents and other visitors.

Fun By The Numbers
Like puzzles? Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test!

Here's How It Works:
Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

Are You Wasting Money on Supplements?

A cup of coffee gives me a pleasant boost in the afternoon, but if my husband drinks coffee after 1 pm, he's wide awake until midnight.

While my partner can enjoy several beers with little effect, I'm looking for the nearest flat surface for a nap if I have more than one.

One of my co-workers at the 200-bed hospital I worked for some years ago avoided taking the anti-inflammatory drug ibuprofen (Motrin-IB→, Advil→) because it made her too groggy to drive a car safely.

My best friend always chose naproxen (Aleve→) over ibuprofen because ibuprofen gave her no relief while naproxen worked like magic.

We are amazingly unique individuals when it comes to medicines and supplements. No medicine works the same in everyone.

Medicines and supplements that work fine for some people may not work at all for others.

At the hospital where I worked, the pharmacy staff was responsible for storing and delivering special pumps that delivered intravenous pain medicine directly by pressing a button attached to the machine.

Patients liked them because it was better than waiting in agony until a busy nurse found enough time to come and give them a shot.

Sometimes, a hospital patient wouldn't get much relief from their pain medicine despite receiving multiple doses from the machine and their nurse.

It seemed that that particular drug just didn't work for them. They got relief after just one dose when switched to a different pain medicine.

When a doctor prescribes

a medicine, they expect it to help you; most of the time, that's exactly what happens.

But if a physician gives you a prescription drug to treat your problem and nothing happens, something needs to change.

What if you start taking a blood pressure medicine, but your elevated blood pressure doesn't decrease? Your doctor must either increase your dosage or change you to a different medicine.

Most of us seek ways to improve our health and increase our energy. When I ask someone taking a particular supplement why they take it, they don't always know. Then, when I ask them if their supplement is helping them, they shrug their shoulders.

Since no medicine or supplement works for everyone, how can you tell if your supplement is actually helping you?

One of the best ways to do that is to start a symptom diary before you start on any new supplement.

Memory is a funny thing. Our ability to recall exactly what happened before a particular event is not nearly as complete or accurate as we think.

In the world of human research, the difference between how a study participant remembers events before and after that event is called "Recall Bias."

Most studies are carefully designed to avoid recall bias because the difference between what is remembered later by a study participant is often startlingly different from what happened.

A symptom diary can document both your before and after. You can compare your "before" description of your symptoms or energy level to how you are doing "after" you start taking that new herbal product or supplement.

If you wait until AFTER you've been on a supplement to recall how you were feeling or doing before you started it, your description will likely be inaccurate.

It's surprising how many people continue taking supplements, hoping for amazing results, but can't decide if they are making any difference.

Since not everyone responds to a particular medicine or supplement, why continue to waste your time and spend money on something that isn't helping you? A symptom diary removes the uncertainty of whether your supplement works or not.

Here Are 3 Tips on Using a Symptom Diary:

1. Decide WHAT you expect/hope the supplement will do for you.

Do you hope it will help you sleep? Reduce your knee pain or stiffness? If it worked, how would life improve for you?

2. BEFORE starting your new supplement, score yourself first.

Choose the symptoms bothering you the most or which you want to improve. Score the intensity of each symptom on a scale of 1-5 or 1-10.

The key is to record your symptoms or what you hope will change BEFORE your first dose.

Start scoring at least a couple of days beforehand, and weekly thereafter.

3. Compare your "before" scores to your "after" scores.

In the words of a Chinese proverb, "The palest ink is better than the best memory."

A symptom diary can show whether your supplement is making you feel better. Using one will help you decide whether it is worth purchasing again.

take up to months to arrive. By keeping such a constant inventory and providing less customizable but still fully-equipped hot tubs, Hot Tubs Liquidators can sell their products for incredibly lower prices than their competition.

"We are literally thousands of dollars cheaper than our competitors," he shared. "I buy trucks at a time, you know, around 10 spas at a time. When you go into another spa dealer and you order, they may have just brought in a half dozen spas for four other people. So, now you've got to wait maybe a couple of months just for them to be able to get a truck together."

RUTH KEYS/WARD MEDIA
Hot Tubs Liquidator's classic Chelan location continues to open the doors to its showroom, servicing communities across the NCW with hot tubs and spas.

With their business model flourishing and bringing in demand from Seattle to Canada, the Aldriches are excited to run their new storefront in Wenatchee, located at 1625 N. Wenatchee Ave. Their grand opening celebration is set September 28.

However, Hot Tubs Liquidators' Wenatchee location has already opened the doors to its showroom, welcoming in local business to their storefront.

As they continue to spread their brand as the most affordable spa dealers in the region, John and Carol Aldrich plan on opening a future location in Moses Lake to better Eastern Washington communities. To learn more about Hot Tubs Liquidators, visit their website at hot-tubsliquidators.com.

"It's just always exciting to be in front of your hometown, for people to recognize what Autumn Leaf does, because there's a lot of new people in Leavenworth over the last 15 to 20, years, and a lot of them don't know the history of Autumn Leaf... This is a pretty big deal," said Bradshaw.

The Grand Parade is scheduled for 12 p.m. on Sept. 28. The festival will have live music and entertainment all weekend. "I think what people should know is: make sure you go and get out your leaves. That's one, and put them out along the Front Street in the parade route, put
