Timm, Agnew win commissioners; seats, TRH levy passes

By MIKE MALTAIS
Ward Media Staff Reporter

OKANOGAN—The Nov. 26 confirmation of Nov. 5 general election results did not come down to the wire for any races for county commissioner posts in Okanogan and Douglas counties. Both victorious candidates—Randy Agnew in Douglas and Nick Timm in Okanogan—opened the vote counts with large leads and cruised to the finish line from there.

Timm received 63.17 percent of the initial vote total and ended up with 62.28 percent of the votes cast. Opponent Marc Doney finished with 6,581 votes, or 36.49 percent.

Timm campaigned on the platform of property rights, personal rights, and common-sense law. Property rights have generated plenty of heat countywide this year.

Two zoning code hearings in February and March earlier this year drew large crowds of county residents who take issue with the direction that more restrictive regulations revisions are taking. A third public hearing was held Dec. 2.

Agnew, the current mayor of Rock Island, captured 68.83 percent of the first unofficial count and ended with 67.46 percent.

As mayor, Agnew helped other small Douglas County communities negotiate a new Law Enforcement Services Agreement (LESA) with the county that was priced beyond what the communities could afford.

Agnew arranged a series of meetings between the commissioners and mayors that resulted in a 10 percent cost reduction and a five-year phase-in period for the increases.

“I was the first mayor to sign the new reworked contract,” said Agnew, “Only on the condition that the commissioners work with the mayors to come up with a long-term solution because, ultimately, it still is not economically sustainable.”

Agnew thinks he may have a solution.

“Douglas County receives one-tenth of a cent (0.1) of the sales tax that goes specifically to law and justice,” said Agnew last August. “(The commissioners) can increase that rate up to three-tenths of a cent

(0.3) which is what Chelan County is currently receiving.”

Agnew said Douglas County also has a big issue with jail costs, and any increase in the sales tax percentage may have to address that issue as well.

TRH levy passes

For the third consecutive time the one-year special operating levy for Three Rivers Hospital won renewal by the required 60 percent supermajority. From a strong initial margin of 54.22 percent in Okanogan County and 51.61 percent in Douglas the levy was certified with 62.03 percent from Okanogan voters and 51.4 percent by Douglas voters.

“Property tax revenues make up about 6 percent of our total budget, and that funding has been invaluable for us as a nonprofit rural Critical Access Hospital,” said TRH Chief Executive Officer Scott Graham.

Chelan has nailbiter

There were no close ballot issues in Okanogan and Douglas counties to match the down-to-the-wire race to approve the City of Chelan’s proposed Transportation Benefit District. The revenue measure designed to provide needed funding for city transportation improvements drew more than 2,300 votes and passed by just five.

BREWSTER – A scene played out in community centers, churches, and goodwill hubs across the nation unfolded Thanksgiving Day at Columbia Post 97 of the Brewster American Legion when the public was invited to share holiday diner.

The annual event drew scores to the tables spread with staples including turkey, ham, stuffing, mashed potatoes, gravy, cranberry sauce, and more, not to mention the wide variety of desserts prepared by many generous donors in the area.

Post Commander Greg Waggoner put out the call for volunteers on the Legion’s Facebook site and reliably they responded. Friends and neighbors who otherwise might have spent a quiet day at home dined with family and broke bread with acquaintances.

An added attraction at this year’s gathering was the opportunity to place written bids on an array of silent auction items that featured something for every taste. Artwork, tools, craft, sports apparel, home furnishings, decorations, and gift certificates were just part of the available items. The auction started on Nov. 21 and closed at 8 p.m., Friday, Nov. 29.

The dining atmosphere was warm and welcoming and all who dropped in no doubt hope the ritual repeats next year.

BRIDGEPORT—In compliance with the state Growth Management Act (GMA), the City of Bridgeport has a comprehensive plan that includes six-year and 20-year capital facilities projects. The city is required to update these project lists annually during the annual budget process for the upcoming year. Cities in Washington state must comply with the state GMA to be eligible for certain state grants and loans.

City clerk/treasurer Judy Brown delivered an overview of the capital facilities plan at a public hearing held during the regular monthly city council meeting on Nov. 20. The council later approved the resolution. Elements of both plans include:

NCW Libraries launches Winter Reading Program

NCW News
Ward Media

WENATCHEE — NCW Libraries launched its annual Winter Reading Program on Dec. 1 to promote literacy across North Central Washington during the winter months through a combination of traditional and digital engagement methods.

The program, available at all 30 library locations and via mobile Bookmobile services, allows participants to track their reading progress both through physical reading logs and the digital platform Beanstack.

“Our winter reading program is all about reading for fun. It’s an invitation for community members of all ages to make time to read. We want to foster a culture of reading for all, whether that’s with a book, an audiobook, or even a magazine. Join us!” said Alicia O’Dell, Adult Services Manager.

The initiative implements a dual-reward system: participants using paper logs receive tangible prizes upon reaching their goals, while digital participants earn virtual raffle tickets for prize drawings.

Each library branch has established community-specific reading targets, displayed on prominent reading thermometers that track collective progress. The system-wide impact of last year’s program was significant, with participants logging over 27,500 books during the two-month period.

To foster community engagement, branches are featuring curated book displays and encouraging patron-written reviews. The library system is also maintaining an active online presence, sharing age-appropriate book recommendations across their website and social media platforms.

Participation in the Winter Reading Program is free and open to all residents. Interested participants can obtain reading logs at any physical location or register online at www.ncwlibraries.org.

The program builds upon NCW Libraries’ existing infrastructure of 30 branches and mobile services, extending its reach across North Central Washington’s diverse communities.

For additional information, visit www.ncwlibraries.org or access the Winter Reading Program homepage through the Beanstack App.

5 THINGS TO DO THIS WEEK

OBITUARY

Trevor Arthur Atcheson

On Monday November 18, 2024, we lost our beautiful Trevor Arthur Atcheson, born December 27, 1989. A beautiful son, father, brother, uncle, nephew, cousin, and friend. He was all around a beautiful man. Trevor was in Spokane working hard on his important projects the day when he went into ventricular fibrillation. His heart just could not take it anymore. Trevor was such a fighter, he wanted to live so much for his son, Hayden, and for his family. His plan had been to sign up for school in January of 2025.

Trevor was working hard to progress. Trevor's physical ailments may have torn him to pieces, but every time he struggled, he got back up and put himself back together again. When Trevor was 10 years old, he and his dad walked into Tolman Creek in the Madison Range near Ennis on a hunting adventure. He loved it. We have a picture of him leaning against a tree with his little orange hat on. He was so strong and brave. Trevor can never be replaced, and our hearts are shattered into a billion pieces in his loss. We now must pick up the pieces and put them back together again, because that is what Trevor would have wanted and expected.

Trevor's Dad was able to talk with Trevor just before he passed. He promised Trevor that everything was going to be okay, and we were all going to take the best care of Hayden moving forward. Trevor acknowledged that conversation with his dad, and we cannot forget it. We know Trevor had so many people that loved him and he loved you too. His love will forever be invincible.

It is significant that Trevor passed one week to the day after Veteran's Day. Trevor and his dad had just been talking about his Papa, and how much he is loved and missed. Papa was so brave in the Korean war and now Trevor can be at rest with his Papa, Arthur Jack Atcheson, who he absolutely adored. They will now be hunting and fishing partners in the happy hunting grounds of Heaven, chasing the bulls, bucks and trout and there is so much glory in that! Trevor was also able to spend time with his Gramma who he loved so much, Mary Claire Atcheson, just before he left us.

Trevor was raised in beautiful Butte, MT. He played Butte junior hockey for years as #19 and made great friends like Kevin Violette and James Adamo. Trevor was so proud to be # 55 for the Butte High Bulldogs. His senior letters in football and track meant the world to him. He will always be the proudest Butte High Bulldog! He made so many friends on that team including Dylan Grady. Trevor loved the entire Grady family, and they always loved Trevor back. Brodie Stradinger was such a great friend to Trevor, and they were a real hoot when they were together. Brodie's dad, Jerry Stradinger was always so kind to Trevor. Cameron Dinatale was a great friend of Trevor's from Spokane and will continue to have a positive impact on our lives. Trevor was lucky to have made such a great friend before his passing and he really made a point of wanting it to be known how much he appreciated and looked up to Cam.

Other people who really loved Trevor, and who had a major impact on his life were Kevin Crystal and his boys, Dru and Colin, as well as the whole Crystal Clan of Bozeman. His son Hayden's big brother, Landen Lamar, Hayden and Landen's mother, Misty Lamar, Amy Polich and her parents, Bill and Marilyn, Edward and Jan Ashley, Charles and Rachelle Stephenson were also people who impacted Trevor's life immensely. We also recognize the Bender's, Tom and Terri (RIP), JT and Britney, Andy Reid who always had Trevor's back, and Jessica from Spokane, who was with Trevor in the emergency room until the very end. She was so strong and supportive of him during an exceedingly difficult moment. We also thank and recognize everyone who helped Trevor with his medical benefit in 2012 and beyond. Trevor appreciated all the love and support.

Trevor had many amazing teachers, coaches, and instructors over the years, but Mrs. Pomroy from Whittier School, Chris Fisk and John Bercier from Butte High are shining examples of what impact teachers and educators have when they are they are the absolute best at what they do.

Trevor was an amazing and strong swimmer, spending countless hours swimming in Montana's lakes and rivers. He was an Atcheson and the mountains, the rivers, the forests, the peaks, and valleys all called to Trevor his whole life. He loved to hunt and fish and spend time with his dad, his papa Jack, grandpa Jordan, his uncles, and friends. Trevor could get around in the mountains at twelve years old, like few grown men could ever dream of. The strength that he had when he was younger, before he was stricken with cardiomyopathy, was a testament to how long he survived.

Trevor graduated from Butte High School in June of 2008. He spent time working and doing part-time college classes, then he entered Montana Tech in 2011.

When Trevor first got sick in December of 2011, he had just been placed high on the Dean's list at Montana Tech and had just achieved his personal best a of 330-pound bench press, something he had worked hard to achieve. The day he completed that milestone he had done the P90X workout twice with his friend, Dylan, and then they went and lifted weights. That was a huge accomplishment for Trevor, and it is shocking considering that only a month later, he was diagnosed with cardiomyopathy of his heart, which changed his life forever.

Please remember that your health and welfare are more important; get those checkups and do not wait. We did everything we could with Trevor right away, but his heart had already experienced tremendous damage because of the effects of his cardiomyopathy. Trevor was life flighted to Spokane in late December of 2011 and that began a long and challenging journey for a very brave young man.

On January 5, 2012, we nearly lost Trevor, the doctor's said at 3:30 a.m. they did not think Trevor would survive, but by 5:30 a.m., he rallied, and things changed substantially. Trevor continued to fight hard for the next 13 years. Trevor's greatest accomplishments are many, but his pride and joy was his son, Hayden Lamar Atcheson. Hayden is a beautiful boy, and Trevor made a point to his dad that he wanted to thank Mikki and Thane Lamar, for everything that they have done for Hayden in recent years. The sacrifices they have made have been immeasurable, and their continuing dedication to Hayden's health and welfare are so commendable. Trevor always extended his gratitude for this and so does his entire family.

Trevor is survived by his son, Hayden Lamar Atcheson of Mansfield, WA; his father, Brian Atcheson (Sheri) of Butte, MT; his mother, Edwina Jordan of Helena, MT; sister, Trinda Lea Atcheson; brother, Liam Ferriter; his beloved nephew, Tristen Timothy Fahnestock; and his niece, Darla Grace Hibbs-Dibble, who he loved so much. He is also survived by, grandmothers, Mary Claire Atcheson and Linda Jordan; uncles, Jack Atcheson Jr. (Cindy), Keith Atcheson (Niki) and aunt, Kristie Baerlocher (Lee); aunt, Laurinda Stokke (Jade); uncle, Bruce Jordan; cousins, Andrew Atcheson, Alissa Atcheson (Mikey Palmer), Brook, Braeden, Lauren and Bohde Baerlocher, Ashley and Taron Stokke, Jack and Will Pesanti, Canyon and McKynlee Flynn, and the little ray of sunshine that is Emrey

Trevor especially liked writing rap, music, poetry, short and long stories. He left behind a mass of beautiful writings which the world needs to see. Certain things are just too important not to share.

He loved his family and his friends, and the Lord knows, we wish we had more time with him. Our task now is to make is to make sure that his legacy and his honor lives on.

Trevor was faced with unbelievable medical challenges. Trevor had an LVAD (left ventricular assist device) implanted in his heart. That device requires that the battery never die. Think about how often we let our cell phone battery die. With an LVAD, that is not an option. Everything involved in keeping Trevor's heart beating created a huge mountain for Trevor to climb, and he kept climbing that mountain until the very end.

Trevor was a gentleman, a poet, a scholar, a philosopher, an incredible artist, and visionary. He was someone who captivated everyone who spent time with him. He was a gift to this earth. We love you, Trevor. You are now healthy and whole in Heaven.

A Celebration of Life will be held in Butte in early 2025, to allow Trevor's Spokane family and friends to safely travel to Montana, with the date to be announced.

Arrangements are under the care of Hennessey Funeral Home (Division Street) in Spokane, WA. Please visit www.hennesseydivision.com, to leave your condolences on Trevor's online guestbook.

Letter to the Editor

Three Rivers Hospital thanks voters

On behalf of our entire team at Three Rivers Hospital, I'd like to thank the voters for their support of our one-year renewal levy in the Nov. 5 election. While these funds can be used on other hospital operations, we've mainly used them to offset the cost of staffing our 24-hour emergency room with board-certified physicians.

even operationally - that is, covering our costs through patient care revenues. That is a challenge for most healthcare facilities, due to factors such as reimbursements lower than the cost of providing care. To mitigate that, we look to our expenses for areas we can reduce, and we focus on growing services.

Property tax revenues make up about 6 percent of our total budget, and that funding has been invaluable for us as a nonprofit rural Critical Access Hospital. To ensure we're making the best use of your investment, our team works tirelessly to achieve our goal of breaking into our 76th year of service, and that will be made possible because of the overall support of our communities: Brewster, Bridgeport, Pateros, Mansfield, Methow, Carlton, Twisp, Winthrop, and Mazama. Thank you!

“All Is Calm: The Christmas Truce of 1914” returns to Music Theater of Wenatchee

By TAYLOR CALDWELL
Ward Media Staff Reporter

WENATCHEE – “All Is Calm: The Christmas Truce of 1914” will return to the Music Theater of Wenatchee this December. The musical tells the true story of soldiers laying down their weapons and spending Christmas with the enemy during World War I (WWI).

“It celebrates the bravery of these men who were not afraid to fight for their country, but also, at the same time, were not afraid to realize that the people that crossed the trenches from them were human beings as well,” said Director Henry Hettick.

On Christmas Eve of 1914, five months into WWI, an impromptu truce between soldiers fighting amid the trenches began with a Christmas carol sung by German soldiers. Thousands of soldiers left their trenches to greet their enemy, sharing rations, playing soccer, and singing Christmas songs in a demonstration of peace. However, the truce was short-lived, when higher command forced soldiers to return to their trenches and resume fighting.

“War is often at the instigation of people who are not going to fight it, and often for reasons that have nothing to do with the lives of those who fight it. And so I think that’s an important message, and that you can love your enemy as well. I think that’s a really important message right now, even in this country,” said Hettick.

The musical was created by Peter Rothstein, and originally performed at Theater Latté Da in Minneapolis, Minnesota. Rothstein dedicated himself to research before writing the musical, in order to balance accuracy, joy, and tragedy of the historic moment in “All is Calm.”

“I think he got the story right, because although it’s a very heartwarming story, it’s also an extremely tragic story, because this one incident that happened with so much hope is surrounded by awful death and destruction by humanity. And it didn’t last,” said Music Director Dan Jackson.

The story is told through 37 a capella songs in 75 minutes. The songs are a mix of complex harmonies of both classic Christmas carols as well as songs of war.

“They’ve been arranged in ways that are truly unique. In the middle of the show, “Silent Night” is sung by the whole chorus, and it’s sung in three different languages, French, German and English. It’s also in, at various points, three different tempos...And it’s overlapping...It’s just an amazing, amazing bit of musical creation,” said Hettick.

The immersive production projects photos from the war behind the men as they sing, and songs are interspersed with monologues of real letters home written by soldiers in the war.

“It’s got moments that make you want to cry and whatnot, but you leave the theater feeling exhilarated by the bravery of these men, but also by a piece of theater that’s moving,” said Hettick.

“All Is Calm: The Christmas Truce of 1914” will have both evening and matinee performances at the Riverside Playhouse in Wenatchee. Evening performances will be at 7:30 p.m., Dec. 5-7 and 12-14. Matinee performances will be at 2 p.m. Dec. 7-8 and 14-15. For more information and tickets, visit mtow.org.

“It’s really cool that we have an organization like Music Theater [of Wenatchee] in town that has a facility and can be a vehicle for shows like this...We wouldn’t be doing it I don’t think if we didn’t have Music Theater. It’s a community treasure,” said Jackson.

Wenatchee volunteer named 2024 Master Gardener of the Year

NCW News
Ward Media

WENATCHEE — The Washington State University Extension Master Gardener Program has named Debbie Benbow of Wenatchee as its 2024 Master Gardener of the Year, recognizing her extensive contributions and leadership in horticultural education across the state.

Benbow, who has served as a volunteer with the WSU Chelan-Douglas Master Gardener Program since 2009, was selected from eight nominees statewide by the WSU Extension Master Gardener Recognition and Awards Committee. The award was announced in late September and is sponsored by the Master Gardener Foundation of Washington State.

“I can’t say enough good things about Debbie Benbow,” said Marco Martinez, coordinator of the WSU Chelan-Douglas Master Gardener Program. “Her work has benefitted our local WSU Master Gardener Program and other programs statewide. Locally, she has helped our program better focus its education efforts. She has also used her marketing and graphic design skills to help promote those efforts.”

The award recognizes active

volunteers who demonstrate leadership at both state and county levels while making lasting contributions to the Extension Master Gardener Program. Benbow’s service record shows significant dedication, with more than 1,500 volunteer hours logged in the past two years alone. Throughout her 15-year tenure, she has accumulated over 7,100 volunteer hours.

In related news, Craig Lawrence, a WSU Chelan-Douglas Master Gardener since 2016, was nominated for the Ed LaCrosse Distinguished Award. Lawrence was one of four nominees for this recognition, which honors individuals who have made significant statewide impacts on the WSU Extension Master Gardener Program or have served the Master Gardener Foundation of Washington State.

NCW News

WENATCHEE — The Community Foundation of North Central Washington announced the distribution of $63,500 in grants to 36 organizations through its Woods Family Music & Arts Fund, supporting arts and music education programs across three counties.

The grants, which provide up to $5,000 each for operating expenses or specific projects, aim to increase equitable access to arts and culture in Chelan, Douglas, and Okanogan counties, with a particular focus on youth and underrepresented audiences.

“We were thrilled with the quality of the grant requests for the Woods Family Music & Arts Fund this year,” said fundholder Rufus Woods. “We were only able to meet a portion of the need for music and arts funding, so it made for a very challenging job of selecting which grants to fund. We appreciated the many efforts to create access to arts and music education for kids and adults who otherwise wouldn’t have access to these programs.”

The fund originated with Wilfred and Kathy Woods, arts patrons who established the Woods House Conservatory of Music in 1997. The conservatory’s board later decided to sell the property and establish the current grant program through the Community Foundation, a decision that has led to broader impact.

“That decision has resulted in being able to dramatically increase the impact on music and arts programs in the region,” Rufus Woods said. Since its establishment, the grant has distributed over $670,000.

The grant operates through a Field of Interest Fund, allowing donors to support specific causes while relying on the Community Foundation to manage distribution. The Community Foundation of North Central Washington, established in 1986, currently manages $163 million in assets through more than 690 individual funds.

Fizzy Cookie Shapes

Baking soda and vinegar create a fizzy, bubbly reaction when mixed. Try this experiment with a family member.

Stuff you'll need:

- Baking sheet (makes cleanup easier)
- Holiday cookie cutters
- Baking soda
- White vinegar
- Green and red food coloring

Step 1: Add red food coloring to a cup of white vinegar. Stir. Repeat with green food coloring.

Step 2: Place a cookie cutter on the tray and pack it with baking soda.

Step 3: Add drops of green and red vinegar to the baking soda.

Incredible Vanishing Candy Canes

This experiment will reveal how candy canes react to different liquids. What do you think will happen?

Record your observations to see if you predicted the correct results.

- Stuff you'll need:
- 4 small candy canes
  - 4 clear jars or glasses
  - Hot water
  - Cold water
  - White vinegar
  - Cooking oil

SCIENTIST'S NOTEBOOK

Question: How does a candy cane react when left in different liquids?

Hypothesis: Your guess at what will happen. _____

Method:

- Fill each jar or glass with one liquid. Use the same amount each time.
- Place a candy cane in each container.
- Watch what happens to the candy canes over the next couple of hours.

The Holidays Make Scents

Maybe it's because I have a carrot for a nose, but I don't get to smell much of the wonderful scents the holidays bring each year. See if your friends and family members can identify the secret scents hidden in five bags without looking in the bag.

Stuff you'll need:

- 5 paper bags
- Marker
- Pine needles
- Cinnamon sticks
- Hot cocoa powder
- Candy Canes
- Marshmallows
- Cup of eggnog
- Gingerbread
- Popcorn
- Roasted chestnuts
- Pumpkin spice
- Drops of vanilla extract
- Holiday scented candle

Choose any 5 of these items.

SCIENTIST'S NOTEBOOK

Question: Will people be able to identify every scent? Which one will every person correctly identify?

Hypothesis: Your guess at what will happen. _____

Method:

- Number the bags 1 through 5.
- Place the bags on a level surface. Place an item in each bag.
- Have each person sniff each bag and tell you what they think they smell.

Observation: Which scent was guessed correctly most often?

Which scent was guessed correctly least often?

Conclusion: Explain what this experiment taught you. _____
